DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
3. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Martin, U. S. Patent 4,771,086 in view of Robinson et al, U. S. Patent 5,279,664 or McClain, U. S. Patent 4,243,762.

Reference to Martin teaches the claimed process for making aqueous dispersions of composite particles and further includes the use of dispersion aids in the process that are added to the aqueous dispersion medium. The use of hydroxy containing amino compounds as the dispersing aid is not taught. Both references to Robinson et al and McClain teach the addition of claimed amino-alcohol compounds in aqueous dispersions of polymers of the same chemical make-up of the polymers used in the composites of Martin. It would be prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include the dispersion aids taught by Robinson et al and McClain for aqueous systems with similar functionalities on the polymers in the aqueous dispersions of Martin absent evidence of unexpected results commensurate in scope to the claims.
